

SEMICONDUCTOR DEVICE AND METHOD OF FORMING THE SAME

ABSTRACT

A process for forming a semiconductor structure includes forming a gate dielectric overlying a substrate, a conductive gate electrode overlying the gate dielectric, a barrier layer overlying and in physical contact with the conductive gate electrode, and an organic anti-reflective coating (ARC) layer overlying and in physical contact with the barrier layer.